

KILLAM AND BASSETTE

SOUTH GLASTONBURY
CONNECTICUT

Kevin Bassette started working for Henry Killam when he was 9 years old. Henry never married and never had any family who wanted to take over the farm, so he and Kevin became partners. Their original business was based mainly on dairy and tobacco, but with the decline in prices for both items over the years, they began to sell the produce they were growing on the farms for themselves. Now they offer a wide variety of products from squash, corn, berries and tomatoes. Killam and Bassette is a family run company that prides itself on growing and selling only the highest quality, naturally grown items.
